Dear Evridiki,

I wish to express my appreciation for your efforts in bringing your nursing students into communication with my students in our global health course. Our work together brought students from Hong Kong, Greece and the U.S. into active exchange of ideas about our profession, health in our respective countries and ethics in health care. The students have indicated that it was a valuable learning experience.

Thank you so much for your efforts, time, and pleasant communication with me. Your interest in global affairs is such a positive attribute. The next generation of nurses will be more globally competent. because of efforts of teachers like you. I hope that our students will be able to share this experience again in March-April 2011.

Please share this letter with your dean.

Best Regards,
