DESCRIPTION

You have to do an internship as part of your university studies but do not want to go to a company where you will make coffee or do just data-entry? Come join us!

Growth is a performance digital agency with strong focus on Digital Analytics (both web and mobile). We have successfully completed numerous advanced Google Analytics implementations for Clients with an annual revenue of up to €700 million/year. Our GA visualisation app was shared in the official Google Analytics newsletter and we have as company advisor Stephane Hamel who is a global thought leader in Google Analytics. If you always wanted to do world-class work with Google Analytics for top Clients, we will provide you the opportunities and the means to do it.

We are currently looking for an aspiring Software Engineer who will develop Google Analytics implementations, create Google Apps Script solutions and work with the AdWords/Facebook API.

REQUIREMENTS

You must have:

- Strong knowledge of Javascript
- Enjoy fast-paced work and overcoming technical and business challenges
- Must be able to communicate effectively and write well

Bonus points if you have:

- Worked with Google Analytics, Google AdWords or Facebook APIs
- Developed Google Apps Script applications

We don't care about your age or your education. Our culture supports people that want to punch above their weight. Therefore, if you have passion, intelligence and possess a technical knack (even if you're missing some of the above), we encourage you to apply.

BENEFITS

We know that the growth of our company is 100% based on our Team and therefore we are looking for talented and really ambitious people. If you are one of those rare breed, you will be working with a team of young, smart people in a company with a clear growth mindset. On top of this, we offer:

- Competitive salary

- Free lunch
- Licenses for the software and working tools of your choice
